“Adapting to the Changing World of Office Anesthesia”

Presented by Deepak Krishnan, DDS, FACS

- Adapting to changing patient demographics & the increasing medical complexity of patients
- Dealing with drug shortages
- New and helpful drugs
- Responding to the opioid abuse epidemic
- Responding to the need for increased training in new techniques, medications, medical complexities, anesthesia emergencies
- Simulation training, past, present, and future
- Adapting to changing work force demographics
- This course will provide 8 CE credits.

Dr. Deepak Krishnan is a dynamic and popular speaker on office based anesthesia, coming to FDSA for the first time with a fresh perspective on current and pertinent issues in the changing world of office based anesthesia. Dr. Krishnan is director of the University of Cincinnati’s Oral & Maxillofacial Surgery Residency Program. He is an associate professor of Surgery at the College of Medicine at University of Cincinnati in Ohio, USA, where he teaches and practices. He is a past-president of the Ohio State Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons and the president of the Ohio Dental Society of Anesthesiology.

Dr. Krishnan’s clinical interests are in ambulatory anesthesia clinical research and simulation, orthognathic and reconstructive surgery, maxillofacial trauma, and pediatric maxillofacial surgery. He brings a new thought provoking voice to the current issues facing providers of office based anesthesia.
